

NYON

12 AMBER

THE AIR ABOVE THE TAMARINDS 1957.

*The casuarinas form
a fretwork fleet
of bright vermilion butterflies that fall across the beach
in orange and sudden warmth;
So, when thunder rains
come slantwise down across the sky,
their leaves unlatch
and ply like sampans down
from the damp moss-trees;
Until they're poised below
the istana's minarets,
like rapid fleets in a whirlpool shoal,
Or disappearing silhouettes.*

ARCHITECT'S STATEMENT

Re-creating a Typical Typology of a Residential Tower:

A human-scaled yet volumetric first storey resembles the identity of East Coast which brings reminiscence of old times.

Spaces are layered, progressing from enclosed to open, creating a different sense of space for the users.

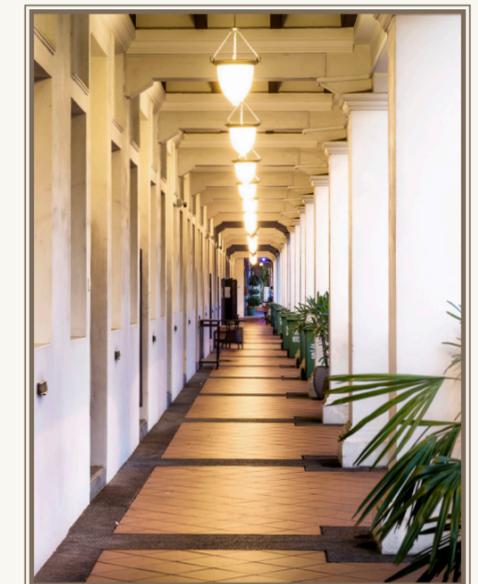

With its pure white square blocks, it is considered as a starting point for the residents to imprint their new lifestyle onto it, while standing out from the typical residential towers nearby.

Memory From street to home

Walking home after school always presented itself as a journey from the bustling pathways of East Coast's vibrant street-scape.

Pathways of East Coast

A district well-remembered for its prestige still echoes its timeless stories through iconic landmarks of the Peranakan lifestyle.

Walks along the neighbourhood are filled with traces of its vivid history. The classical structures and detailed patterns of shophouses carefully cherished. Customs and traditions upheld today by boutiques, antique houses, and eateries. At this buzzing stretch of East Coast, memories come to life.

My Cherished Memories

03

01

My father's daily breakfast: charcoal-grilled buns spread with kaya, or dipped into soft-boiled eggs with a dash of pepper and dark soy sauce.

02

A favourite in our house were the Nyonya Rice Dumplings – little pyramids of fragrant glutinous rice and meat, wrapped tightly in bamboo leaves.

03

The distinctive blue façade drew me in as a child. Floral batik sarongs and embroidered blouses. Precious, antique jewellery, and hand-beaded slippers- all found on the ground floor of the heritage shophouse.
